Take Over Guard Duties Wednesday

(Editor's Note: Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer with the Canadian forces in Korea, has just arrived at Koje Island, scene of rioting and disorders among Red prisoners of war. This is his first dispatch from the trouble-spot a few miles from Pusan, on Korea's southeast coast.)

By BILL BOSS, Canadian Press Staff Writer
KOJE ISLAND, Korea, June 3 (CP)—Canadian troops today completed nine days of training for guard duty at one of Koje's most militant prisoner compounds.

A company of the Royal Canadian Regiment under Maj. E. L. Cohen of Brockville and Pembroke, Ont., will share with the King's Shropshire Light Infantry the guarding of compound 66 containing 2,700 North Korean officers and 650 soldiers acting as batmen and cooks for them.

... harried by killings

Another Red P.O.W. Killed Accidentally

KOJE ISLAND, Korea, June 3 (UP)—An accidental burst of fire from a guard's heavy machine gun killed a Communist prisoner of war today and wounded another.

It was the third shooting in less than 24 hours that has angered and embarrassed Brig. Gen. Haydon L. (Bull) Boatner in his efforts to restore order in the prisoner compounds of this island with a minimum of bloodshed.

Tensions in the compounds heightened as prisoners defiantly raised a new flagpole to replace the one flattened by a Patton tank Monday. They mocked the United Nations command with "funeral" services for five prisoners killed when a work detail revolted Friday.

The machine gun, pointed at the fence of compound 78, went off at 10:20 a.m. Prisoners refused to release the body of the victim or send out the wounded man for medical care.

FRANCE WARNS CIVIL SERVICE NOT TO STRIKE

PARIS, June 3 (AP)—The cabinet announced today that any government employee who heeds the Communist call for a general strike Wednesday will be suspended and disciplined.

The interior ministry also ordered units of the National Gendarmerie to reinforce Paris police and prepare to use troops if necessary.

U.S. President Tells Rhee to Ease Politics

President Quoted as Writing That Unless Internal Strife Ends Korea in Grave Danger

PUSAN, Korea, June 3 (AP)—President Truman today told President Syngman Rhee he was "shocked" at political developments in the South Korean Republic, reliable government sources reported.

The U.S. embassy confirmed that a note had been delivered to Rhee but refused to divulge its contents.

Korean sources quoted Truman as writing that unless immediate steps are taken to ease the political crisis, Korea will face a grave situation.

Rhee has proclaimed martial law around the provisional capital and may dissolve the national assembly. The assembly—12 of its members already jailed by Rhee's police—quit work today for lack of a quorum.

A source close to President Syngman Rhee said the aged chief may dissolve the assembly late today or Wednesday. But another source—in the government—said Rhee will withhold action pending outcome of a compromise plan offered to his

(A Reuters dispatch from Koje reported the Canadians will take over guard duty tomorrow.)

Now seemingly an orderly compound, 66 a month ago was one of the most truculent on the island and was believed the brain centre of most of Koje's troubles.

The Canadians today were given brush-up lectures on the Geneva Convention on treatment of prisoners of war and on their duties as guards.

The R.C.R. company was moved from the Korean mainland to Koje May 25 with British and Greek troops to strengthen the Allied hand on the strife-ridden prison island. During the disturbances and shooting of the past week they have been quietly training.

They had no contact with the Chinese and North Korean prisoners after the Reds greeted them with unruly singing, shouting and waving of Red flags.

The prisoners in compound 66, which the Canadians will guard, greeted the British soldiers by lining up in squads along the barbed-wire fence and then suddenly producing flags and chanting slogans.

Assignment of the Canadians to Koje brought a protest from Canada to the United States that Canada should first have been consulted. A note to Washington expressed "concern" that the company had been detached from the 25th Brigade without prior consultation with Ottawa, and urged that the men be returned to the brigade as soon as possible.

COUPLE WATCH WHILE YOUNG PILOT BURNS

Flame-Swept Wreck Thwarts Rescue Try

CAYUGA, Ont., June 3 (BUP)—Two farmers said today they talked to a pilot from No. 400 "Jinx" Squadron and were forced to stand idly by while he burned to death in the wreckage of his R.C.A.F. Mustang fighter plane.

Earl and Norman Link said flames kept them from the plane and we just had to stand back while she went up.

The flier was Flt.-Lt. David K. Russell, 27, who became the sixth of the City of Toronto Reserve Squadron of 18 pilots to die while on training manoeuvres during the past year.

Russell tried to land on an emergency strip about five miles south of here.

"He made a couple of fast passes over the strip then burst into flames and smoked a small hill," the Link brothers said.

"The pilot was still alive when we got to him," Earl said. "Norman and I battered in the canopy. We asked him if he was strapped in. He had a bad gash in his forehead. He seemed pretty badly gashed, but he said 'Yeah.'"

"I had a knife so I cut one of the straps. Norman and I tried to get him out. He wouldn't budge. His feet must have been pinned. He didn't say anything but just sat there sort of half-conscious."

Living Costs Expected to Drop Again

OTTAWA, June 3 (CP)—Another drop in living costs—the fourth in a row—is expected to be announced Wednesday when the Bureau of Statistics publishes the cost-of-living index for April.

Trade Minister Howe provided the tip-off when he predicted in the Commons more than two weeks ago that another drop was in sight and that it would be "substantial."

The index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, now stands at 188.7, down 28 points from the peak of 191.5 last December.

Seven Quebec Children Die In Fierce Fire

QUEBEC, June 3 (CP)—Seven children were burned to death early today when fire destroyed their home at St. Luc de Dujon, in Dorchester County.

The children were identified only as those of Mr. and Mrs. Augustin Lessard, of St. Luc, a farming area about 40 miles south of Quebec.

The mother, burned in an attempt to save her children, is in hospital at Levis. Her condition was reported as serious.

Names and ages of the children were not immediately available. Reports said nine other children survive.

REVOLUTIONARY AFRICAN MEASURE BECOMES LAW

CAPE TOWN, June 3 (Reuters)—The high court of Parliament bill, which gives Parliament the final authority over constitutional legislation, became law today when it was signed by Governor-General E. G. Jansen on behalf of the Queen.

In the bill, Prime Minister Daniel Malan aimed to strip the Appeal Court of its power to invalidate legislation.

The high court will be comprised of members of the Senate and National Assembly. After considering a report from a judicial committee of 10 senators and assembly members, they can vary or set aside any judgment of the Appeal Court dealing with an act of Parliament.

Malan introduced the bill after the courts invalidated a law to remove colored voters from the common register—part of his racial segregation policy.

Truman Boggled By Steel Issue

President Has Three Alternatives While Union-Management Try to Settle Wrangle

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—A bitter, all-out strike shut the vast United States steel industry down tight today and the White House weighed its next peace move in the union-management struggle.

Leaders of both the industry and the striking United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) suggested renewed contracts talks but neither side proposed a date for negotiations.

Unless the contenders get together soon, President Truman will probably take some new action to end the strike—because the walkout is costing the U.S. and its defense effort 300,000 tons of steel daily.

Truman had three choices: (1) Sit tight a while to see what the industry and union will accomplish on their own; (2) invoke the Taft-Hartley Law's 80-day court injunction provisions against a continued strike; or (3) ask Congress for special legislation to deal with the situation.

A high administration official expressed a personal opinion that Truman would invoke the Taft-Hartley Act, as many members of Congress have demanded.

Truman is likely to be wary of his next move, in any event, after being rebuffed on his seizure step.

GENERAL APPROVAL
Congress members generally applauded the court's decision, with some exceptions. Senator Herbert Lehman (Dem. Lib. N.Y.) for example, viewed the ruling with dismay, saying: "Congress must act, without a moment's unnecessary delay, to pass essential legislation to give the president the power he needs. This is no time for politics."

The 650,000 steelworkers began streaming out of the steel mills across the U.S. within minutes after the high court acted, even before getting formal strike instructions from Philip Murray, head of the C.I.O. and the Steelworkers' Union.

John A. Stephens, U.S. Steel Co. vice-president and a leading industry negotiator, announced Monday night that the steel firms, now back in the hands of their private owners, would "sit down with the union without delay to try to reach a fair settlement of the steel strike."

Murray, too, had suggested renewed talks but insisted that the union was still standing on wage stabilization board recommendations for a 26-cent-an-hour "package" increase in an 18-month contract. These terms have been unacceptable to the industry.

MT. EVEREST TRY ABANDONED
KATMANDU, Nepal, June 3 (Reuters)—The Swiss attempt to climb Mount Everest—the world's highest peak—has been abandoned because of bad weather, a home ministry spokesman said today.

'Glimmer of Hope' In Hotel Stalemate

Union Representative Hopeful That Strike May Be Averted

By DON INGHAM

Only a faint ray of hope exists that a strike of 350 employees at the Empress Hotel will be forestalled by midnight tonight.

Union and C.P.R. officials met through Monday afternoon and evening and are continuing their attempt to break the stalemate wages and hours dispute.

"There is just a glimmer of hope," said Robert Smeal, representative of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, bargaining agent for the hotel workers.

The "glimmer" came at the 11th-hour in negotiations that have been deadlocked for weeks, and which had led to a firm stand by the employees to strike at 11:59 tonight.

Both parties had agreed to a mediation meeting with the Labor Relations Board at 5 p.m. today, which gave all signs of being the final meeting before a walkout.

"That meeting might not be necessary now," Mr. Smeal said.

Vancouver Talks Not Affected

Smeal pointed out, however, that any decision reached here will not necessarily apply to the expected strike in the Hotel Vancouver employees Monday, since the Canadian National Railway is involved as a joint owner, there.

"Top brass" of both the union and C.P.R. have spent the last few days in Vancouver and Victoria in attempts to avert the threatened strikes.

Negotiations here had deteriorated from the rejection of a conciliation board recommendation May 22 by the Empress employees to the point where both the union and management had made thorough plans for a long hotel closure.

A settlement that might have had a bearing on the Empress dispute, although neither management nor the union were in the position to say, was the agreement ratified Monday by the C.P.R. and Royal York Hotel employees in Toronto.

Employees were granted a 10 per cent wage increase and voluntary checkoff, making the hotel

Port Alberni Boy Fighting for Life

PORT ALBERNI, June 3—Bronco Yokanovich, 17, shot accidentally Sunday night, was reported in "fairly good" condition today at West Coast General Hospital.

According to R.C.M.P. reports he was struck by a ricochet 22 bullet, apparently fired by his brother, George, 19. He was wounded in the neck.

The accident occurred while the two were hunting squirrels. The bullet is now lodged in the boy's chest. No attempt at removal has been made.

POLICE KILL ESCAPING GERMAN IN EAST ZONE

BERLIN, June 3 (AP)—Communist police shot and killed a Russian-zone German who tried to break through their road blockade and reach free West Berlin, west sector police reported today. They gave these details:

The East German was trying to flee across the border to the United States sector when the Communist people's police shot him down.

Eyewitnesses said the body was left lying there four hours as a warning to other East Germans against trying to crash through the Communist "security belt" which has been forged to seal off the Russian zone from West Berlin.

Scattered clashes, some involving warning shots by the Red police, have been reported from other points on the borders.

Alberta's C.C.F. Leader Denies Claims Made By S.C. Candidate

By The Canadian Press

Elmer Roper, Alberta C.C.F. leader, arrived on the turbulent British Columbia political scene Monday night to deny claims made by Social Credit candidates.

Speaking to a Vancouver East audience in support of B.C.'s C.C.F. leader Harold Winch and Arthur Turner, his running mate, Mr. Roper said he had lived in Alberta for 45 years "but I have come to B.C. to find out the wonderful program of social service we have in Alberta."

Mr. Roper said it may not be news to British Columbians that people in Alberta can get hospital care for $1 a day "but that certainly is news to us in Alberta," he said hospital care in Alberta costs a patient an average of $5 to $6 a day.

Eric Martin, Social Credit candidate, said in a speech before the Vancouver Advertising and Sales Bureau that Social Credit candidates would go to Victoria after June 12 "with a Bible in one hand and efficiency in the other hand in hand with the Alberta government, by whom there would be no dictation."

He said Social Credit would give B.C. "Christian government."

Mr. Martin had equal billing at the meeting with Progressive Conservative Leader Herbert Anscomb, Mr. Winch, and Attorney-General Gordon Wismer.

Later, at a meeting at Chilliwack, Mr. Anscomb contended it is a physical impossibility to force British Columbians to pay compulsory premiums for hospital insurance.

He said citizens have become acclimatized to hospital insurance and will voluntarily sign up for a non-compulsory scheme under a Conservative government. He reiterated charges that the Liberals are divided among themselves in plans for hospital insurance reform.

In a speech at Terrace, Premier Johnson said hospital insurance is too valuable to be kicked around in an effort to make political gains.

"We are going to do everything we can to maintain the scheme. We aren't going to put it on a voluntary basis. That would be equivalent to wiping it out. We are not going to tamper with it in the thought that we might gain a few votes."

FORESTS POLICY CAMERON TARGET

C.C.F. Candidate Says Old-Line Parties Anxious to Complete Give-Away Job

The old-line parties are anxious to be returned to power because "they haven't yet completed the job of giving away B.C.'s natural resources on the best terms possible to favored interests," C.C.F. candidate Colin Cameron told a meeting in Victoria West School Monday evening.

Choosing the forest products industry as his special target, Mr. Cameron said that holders of forest management licenses had not yet made a start on re-planting or re-forestation.

Part of the C.C.F. program would be to bring back forest land into the public domain, and public exploitation of forest resources.

ATTACK ON COMMISSION
He also attacked the record of the B.C. Power Commission, condemned the B.C. Electric Railway Co. and called the Aluminum Co. of Canada "the company with perhaps the most disgraceful record of any company in the world."

Mrs. May Campbell and William Caird, also Victoria C.C.F. candidates, spoke at the meeting. Mrs. Campbell scoffed at Liberal and Conservative warnings that C.C.F. election would mean controls, regimentation and loss of freedom, and referred back to the R. B. Bennett government as an example of restrictions and controls.

Mr. Caird warned of possible bad times to come, and said B.C. must function as part of a larger economy. "When difficult times come, remember that the C.C.F.'s entire program is one of human welfare," he stated.

Snowsell Hits Profits of Corporations

Chief cause for the rising cost of living is the huge profits being taken by big corporations, Frank Snowsell, Saanich C.C.F. candidate, said at a Marigold meeting Monday night.

He said the H. R. MacMillan forest enterprises last year netted a $16,000,000 profit—as much as four major companies, including MacMillan, made the previous year.

The company, he said, is drawing a 26 per cent return on its invested capital.

Water Limits For Saanich This Week

Water restrictions will go into effect sometime this week in Saanich due to a water shortage in some areas of the municipality.

Municipal engineer H. D. Dawson was instructed by Saanich Council Monday to advertise as soon as possible the enforcement of water restrictions.

Enforcement of the restrictions was ordered following complaints from a number of residents of a water shortage. In some high areas where the water pressure is poor the situation is already acute, it is pointed out.

Residents will be asked to water their gardens only on alternate days.

The council also discussed the erection of a water tank at the top of Shorncliffe Road in order to alleviate the water shortage for residents in the area. The municipal engineer was instructed to give a report on the cost of installing the tank.

Straith Counters Critics—Smith Sees Victory

Offer of $100,000 Capital Grant Claimed Bigger Than City Asked

Education Minister W. T. Straith Monday night threw a verbal monkey wrench into Ald. Percy Scourrah's recent statement that he isn't satisfied with a $100,000 capital city grant for Victoria.

Addressing a meeting at Sir James Douglas School, Mr. Straith said he couldn't understand Ald. Scourrah.

"Why, for the past year Ald. Scourrah and others have been coming to see me and asking for a grant of $75,000 to $100,000."

"He named that amount, and now he is ridiculing it," declared Mr. Straith.

The minister said he realized the amount could be bigger, but said "we have a wedge in now."

"The present government is the first ever to recognize its responsibility in this regard," said Mr. Straith. "The $100,000 is a start."

Best Treatment in Canada

"The Liberals have built it up to where B.C. municipalities get better treatment from the provincial government than any others in Canada," he stated.

The minister noted that the Social Credit Alberta government pays nothing towards new school construction while in B.C. the government pays one-half.

Mrs. Nancy Hodges, Liberal candidate, criticized the Conservative proposal for voluntary hospital insurance, making use of private insurance companies. She said she has been informed a private concern would have to set a premium rate of $150 a year to give the same coverage as B.C.H.I.S.

"These companies only want to cover the good risks anyway," she said. "What about the people who cannot afford to pay such high premiums? Hospital insurance was instituted to help these less fortunate people."

HALF TRUTH

Mrs. Hodges said the Social Crediters talk a lot about "practical Christianity," but in their pamphlets they tell half-truths about hospital insurance. She referred to S.C. statements that there is a 30-day limit on hospital stays in this province.

She explained that after a 30-day stay in hospital a patient's doctor is asked if the patient needs further confinement. If the doctor replies in the affirmative she said, the patient stays. She cited cases where hospital stays have ranged from 100 to more than 500 days.

BORROWING TO PROFIT SOUND SAYS EDGELOW

Borrowing money to make money is sound business, Geoffrey Edgelow, Esquimalt Liberal candidate, said at a Luxton meeting Monday night.

"By borrowing money B.C. has been able to develop her natural resources. We have gained many millions of dollars this way," he said.

Speaking in support of the candidate, J. Ronald Grant said a foolish Conservative government years ago gave away or sold at nominal prices huge B.C. timber tracts.

Liberal governments have had to honor those deals, but despite them B.C. forests are returning 16½ per cent of the value of the timber cut to the provincial treasury compared with 11 per cent in Alberta, said Mr. Grant.

Social Credit Government Predicted With Liberals Minority in B.C. House

Ald. J. Donald Smith, Social Credit candidate in Victoria, predicted Monday night the order of finish for the four political parties in the June 12 election.

Speaking at a Victoria West meeting, the young councillor forecast Social Credit would form the next government; that the C.C.F. would form the official opposition; that Progressive Conservatives would be next in strength, and that the Liberal party will be weakest.

Once active in Liberal ranks himself and an officer of the Victoria County Young Liberal Association, Mr. Smith declared: "The Liberal government is through... finished... washed up... they've had it."

Mr. Smith appeared with his running mate, Elmer D. McEwen. The two told of making a house-to-house canvass with Mrs. Lydia Arsens, third party standard bearer in the city, and reported "a heartening reception" from householders.

Mrs. Arsens, although advertised as a speaker at the meeting, was not present. Instead, she attended a meeting in support of Oak Bay's Social Credit candidate at Cadboro Bay.

Third speaker of the evening at Victoria West was William Chant, Social Credit candidate in Esquimalt, and former Alberta cabinet minister.

ANSWERS READY
All three speakers provided answers to critics who attempted to ridicule Social Credit for not having a party leader.

Mr. Smith declared it was better for a party to not have a leader and know where it was going than to have a leader and not know where it was going. He said Manitoba had once elected a farmers' government when the Farmer party there was without an official head and that Alberta's first Social Credit government had not named its leader until elected to office.

On the leader question, Mr. Chant thought opponents of Social Credit should worry about their own political heads.

"Our house is in good order," he assured. "Those who criticize us would do better to look after their own."

"We do not put our confidence in just one man," he went on. "There is no 'Heil Hitler' stuff with us. But I suppose because the other parties do that, they think we should, too."

Mr. McEwen rapped the past administration of the province for its "deals" with big business. He said so many "nice, juicy, political plums" had been offered, it puzzled him why even more industry had not come to British Columbia.

CONFERENCE—In Wellington, N.Z., informal discussions on the recently-arranged three-way meat deal among Canada, Britain and New Zealand began today.

They precede the talks to be held later this week by Canadian government representatives, the New Zealand government and the New Zealand meat producers board.

The deal is being arranged to provide a market for some of the Canadian meat which would normally be sold in the United States if it weren't for the embargo imposed to prevent the spread of foot-and-mouth disease from Canada.

SETTLED—In Windsor the strike of 900 office workers at the Ford Motor Company of Canada was settled Monday night less than one hour before a picketing deadline that would have closed down the big plant for the second time in two weeks.

The office workers reported for work today and normal operations were resumed at the plant.

A membership meeting of Local 240, United Auto Workers (C.I.O.-C.L.), voted to accept a settlement that union officials said meant a total increase of $45 a month on a base rate of $191.56. Actual monetary increase provided by the two-year contract is $36.40.

The contract was worked out by union and management representatives with the aid of Labor Minister Daley of Ontario and Chief Conciliation Officer Louis Fine.

IMPASSE—In San Francisco the Sailors' Union of the Pacific (A.F.L.) strike went into its second week today and a federal conciliator conceded that no bases for a settlement has been reached.

Conciliator Omar Hoskins, after separate talks with representatives of the union and the Shipowners' Pacific Maritime Association Monday commented "there is no basis for resuming talks."

The strike has tied up 30 ships in west coast ports.

Saanich Council Reviews Milk Board Responsibility

The B.C. Milk Board was only formed to see that some people don't sell too good a milk.

Councillor J. H. Passmore's appraisal of the Milk Board drew chuckles from members of Saanich Council Monday.

The duties of the Milk Board were reviewed at the meeting during a discussion on a report from Dr. W. R. Gunn, provincial livestock commissioner, with regard to the dairy farm of Byron McNutt, Wilkinson Road.

The report was in reply to a request from Saanich Council that the Department of Agriculture take steps to stop McNutt from selling his milk because the dairy had not been graded in accordance with the Dairy Act.

While admitting that the dairy farm was not graded, Dr. Gunn indicated that the Department was not responsible for any "situation" that might arise, including the menace to health.

"We are fully convinced that Mr. McNutt hasn't any intention of complying in any sense of the word with even the main requirements, and therefore his dairy premises is 'ungraded' and we are not intending to waste any more time with him," wrote Dr. Gunn.

The refusal of the Department of Agriculture to take legal action against the dairyman aroused the ire of Reeve J. W. Casey.

"I have never heard of such a thing," said the Reeve. "The Department of Agriculture issues and collects the money for the licenses and then refuses to take necessary action when someone does not comply with the regulations."

The Reeve said the department wanted the municipality to "foot the bill."

The council after some discussion decided to refer the matter to the Department of Health and to its solicitor.

WAR—Eight groups of Chinese riflemen pecked at United Nations defenses along a five-mile sector of the Korean western front in pre-dawn darkness today.

A U.S. Eighth Army staff officer said Allied artillery beat back all probes of the groups ranging in size up to 100 men.

The staff officer made no estimate of Red casualties or the possible significance of the concentrated probing attacks.

On the eastern front Allied troops, west of the Satae Valley reported 1,000 rounds of Red artillery and mortar shells fell on their positions.

The staff officer said that in May the Eighth Army inflicted 10,501 casualties on the Reds, including 5,012 killed.

SHUFFLE—In Toronto, a cabinet shuffle was announced today by Premier Frost of Ontario.

Hon. Harold Scott has resigned as minister of lands and forests but will remain in the cabinet as minister without portfolio and retain his seat as member for Peterborough.

Hon. Weiland Gemmel of Sudbury, who has been minister of mines, will succeed him as minister of lands and forests.

Philip Kelly, member of Cochrane North, becomes minister of mines.

ABANDONED—In Seattle the Coast Guard announced today the abandoning of its search for a sunken plane and the four men who went down with it at the mouth of Port Angeles Bay last Wednesday.

A routine lookout will be maintained by all Coast Guard ships passing through the area, but the strong current through the Strait of Juan de Fuca brought a fruitless end to the full scale diving operations.

A district headquarters spokesman said the current was so strong "the divers don't go down; they go straight out."

The full scale search started soon after the crash on a take-off at the Port Angeles Coast Guard base. Eight men survived the crash.

Firehall Shut Pending Probe

Skills Asks Full Breakdown of Fire Chief's New Manning Proposal

No action will be taken on a five-point proposal for re-opening of Yates Street firehall until Fire Chief Frank Brier presents fire wardens with full details as to cost.

Ald. Waldo Skillings, chairman, asked the chief at a meeting Monday to give a complete organization breakdown.

He wants to know by Thursday the costs before closure of Yates Street Hall and dismissal of 10 men; what the costs are now and what they would be under the chief's proposal.

Under the chief's scheme, the dismissal would stand, the hall be reopened and four lieutenants and eight drivers reduced in rank by the closure, "up-graded" to their old positions.

Ald. Skillings said the fire force of 88 men comprised 25 per cent officers.

"Isn't it too large?" he queried. "No," replied the chief. "It's the same as every other department across Canada."

The alderman presented figures which he said proved Victoria was an average in fire protection with cities throughout Canada.

"I don't think anyone can say we are under-staffed on a population basis,"

HED OPPOSE—He stated that if the chief's plan meant over-stepping the budget or cutting equipment appropriations already approved by council, he would be opposed.

The chief urged the following reorganization "in order to give more adequate and better balanced protection":

1. No. 2 Yates Street station be reopened immediately;

2. New Kenworth pumper be placed in No. 2 station to operate with a three-man company in place of the former four-man company;

3. Nos. 1 and 3 pumper companies operate as three-man companies instead of four-man companies;

4. Pumper presently housed in No. 2 station be moved to No. 4 and company strength remain at three men;

5. Four lieutenants and eight drivers be up-graded in order to operate this equipment.

DRILL CURTAILED—"It will be noted," the chief wrote in a letter to fire wardens, "that the necessary reduction in strength will no doubt seriously curtail fire prevention inspections and drill."

On three occasions Ald. Skillings queried the chief on whether there was "too much superintendency."

He said Edmonton, Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria all had 1.7 firemen per 1,000 population and all operated on the 48-hour week.

Hamilton, he said with a population of 207,544 had 1.5 firemen per 1,000 population. Halifax, St. John, N.B., and Montreal, all of which operate on the 72-hour week, he said, had 1.8, 2.05 and 1.5, respectively.

"I don't think we're out of line at all," said Ald. William Pinfold.

"I think the city is adequately covered on a per capita basis," agreed Ald. Skillings, stating if the city had its former force of 98 it would have 1.93 firemen per 1,000.

Ald. Brent Murdoch pointed out Siskatoon, which he felt compared with Victoria, had 13 more firemen than Victoria and 2,000 more population.

The committee agreed to call for tenders for a new pumper authorized by City Council in estimates. Delivery is not expected this year.

City Advance Poll Set for June 5-7

Advance voting for the Greater Victoria area will be held June 5, 6 and 7 at the Y.M.C.A., Blanshard Street, Alan Macfarlane, returning officer, reminded voters today.

The poll will be open from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. daily. Voters in the city, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt will use the same poll.

The advance poll is for persons unable to vote on election day, and any visitor to the city who is unable to vote on election day at the place where he is registered.

On election day there will be 100 polling places in the city. Cards are being sent out advising each voter where to vote in his polling division.

Saanich Council Vote Boosts Its Salaries

A by-law boosting salaries to be paid to reeve and councillors was passed by Saanich Council Monday.

Councillors, who formerly received $300 for their services, will now get $600 a year. The reeve will receive $1,800 instead of $1,200.

The council felt the rent of $3,000 for use of the city police lock-up was somewhat steep. Further discussion on the subject will be sought with the city.

The rent for use of the lock-up was boosted this year from $400 to $3,000. The council felt it should have been given some adequate warning of the forthcoming increase.

At the same time it was decided to study the possibility of erecting a lock-up in Saanich. Councillors felt that the municipality will need a jail in the near future.

The council decided that it will make an effort to revive the question of an incinerator for the whole of Greater Victoria, which was under discussion less than a year ago between the municipalities.

Mr. Stevens' Big Fish Pond

LAST WEEK IN OTTAWA HOMER Stevens, secretary-treasurer of the 8,000 member United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (U.F.A.W.) urged the Commons Fisheries Committee to reject the proposed Canada-United States-Japan fishing treaty and to take restrictive measures against Japanese vessels on this side of the Pacific. He suggested that Japanese fishermen be kept outside a line paralleling British Columbia's coast 150 to 200 miles from shore. Three months ago that specific point was discussed by Stewart Bates, deputy minister of fisheries for Canada, in a paper, "The High Seas and the British Columbia Fishing Industries," prepared for the fifth annual British Columbia Resources Conference in Victoria. The relevant paragraph in the paper states: "Some have suggested that Canada should proclaim her 'rights' to the off-shore fisheries on the high seas. Presumably the idea is that Canada should declare a zone off-shore that she will treat as territorial waters; perhaps a zone extending seawards 150 miles or some other such figure. Enough has been said above to show that other nations will not respect such a claim. In recent years some countries on the Pacific made such 'claims,' only to be told that other nations would not respect them. How do you enforce such a claim if other nations will not agree? You either back down or fight!"

Mr. Bates' language is brutally frank. It leaves no doubt regarding his opinion of the outcome of any attempt to extend territorial limits 150 to 200 miles off-shore.

If there is any belief that poachers inside the proposed 150 to 200-mile limit could be discouraged by marine police action, those who put forward that suggestion might supplement it with an estimate of costs to establish an efficient patrol. Many fishermen question the ability of Canada to enforce such patrols within existing narrower limits. On what basis could that task be accomplished if the water area were multiplied by 50?

The drafted three-country fishing plan at best must depend to a great extent on the good faith of the participating countries. There probably will be violations on the part of nationals of the different nations. But is it the belief of the fishermen's union that possible violations will be reduced if the territory to be policed is expanded to the extent Mr. Stevens suggests?

On the basis of Mr. Bates' convictions, other countries would refuse to honor such a one nation definition of territorial limits. Under such circumstances, an attack on the national of Japan would be more than a police arrest. It would be an international incident. Canada might lodge a complaint against the intruding fisherman. Then, as Mr. Bates suggests, she could back down or fight. What hope would exist for sensible, conservation measures being honored in such a contingency?

A Helping Hand Needed

CIVILIZATION HAS BEEN A HALF-century or so longer in catching up with the Eskimo than it was in making its impact on the Indian. But the day has now arrived when its adverse effects are becoming noticeable.

The vagaries of the fur market have brought instability into the Eskimo economy. With white-fox prices, for instance, only one-fifth of what they were six years ago, many trappers face hardship. While most of the natives still depend on hunting for a living, there is a marked danger that the generation now growing up will lose some of the ability necessary for survival through this means.

More time spent at the trading posts; growing dependence on family allowances, old age pensions and other forms of government aid and increasing resort to the foods of the white man, are all taking their toll of traditional Eskimo self-reliance and ingenuity.

While these dangers have developed, little has been done to prepare the natives for the new conditions that face them. A meeting was recently held in Ottawa to discuss the problems involved but no clear agreement was reached on how to meet them. And it is significant that no Eskimos were considered outstanding enough or able enough to take part in the talks. They have been left in the category of wards.

The danger, of course, is that the same tragic errors of commission and omission that were made in dealing with the Indians will be repeated in the case of the Eskimos. Some assurance that this will not happen would be welcome.

The Olympiad—An Ideal and Distortion

WHEN PARTICIPATING NATIONS can spare the time from assessing their own chances in the Olympic Games they join in the popular pastime of guessing what Russia will do. What the U.S.S.R. will do in Helsinki, provided it sends a team, is far less important than what the Soviets might do in other world theatres in Europe and the Far East.

But whether or not the hammer and sickle rises frequently on the centre flag-staff at the Helsinki stadium, there will be violent propaganda outbursts. Russian participation and reaction to it could do more to distort the Olympic ideal of Baron Pierre de Coubertin than did Hitler's racist theories so competently disproved by Jesse Owens and other American Negroes at the Berlin games.

Russia, correspondents report, will concentrate on entering winning contestants or not entering at all. And from Russia may be expected extremely good performers.

Victory in the Olympics means much to any country. Triumph for its athletes is a source of justifiable pride. As such it is an honorable sentiment.

When such international competition stimulates friendly relationships between the nationals of the different teams, it has a high value. When it promotes sportsmanship it achieves even greater stature.

These are points to be remembered as the world awaits Russia's decision on entering the Games and on the possible showing of her athletes.

In the meantime, it may be worthwhile to recall the words of de Coubertin:

"The important thing in the Olympic Games is not to win but to take part; the important thing in life is not the triumph but the struggle; the essential thing is not to have conquered, but to have fought well. To spread these precepts is to build up a stronger and more valiant, and above all, more scrupulous and more generous humanity."

In the quiet before the Olympic barge opens, it might be well to give thought to that sentiment.

Another Weapon to Fight Cancer

PERIODICALLY CITIZENS OF VICTORIA, like those in other parts of Canada, are informed of special equipment acquired by hospitals to combat certain diseases. Most recently publicity has been given to the Broyle's bronchoscope provided by the Women's Auxiliary to the Royal Jubilee Hospital for the Victoria Cancer Clinic.

According to the authorities, this new acquisition will help medical men to discover cancer of the lung in its early stages and will facilitate the prompt treatment which can be most effective.

News reports of improved facilities for the fight against cancer are essentially valuable. They keep the public informed and conscious of the continuing battle waged against the disease, and they serve as reminders of the part the citizens in general can and should take in that battle.

Science will eventually conquer cancer. It is making strides day after day toward that objective. But science needs the assistance of an informed public and it needs finance.

The war against cancer goes on. Not all those who would like to fight in the front lines can qualify as assault troops. They can, however, build up the lines of supply, the lines that are strengthened by generous donations of funds to a cause which is the cause of humanity.

A Thilver Thpoon in Hith Mouse

FOLKLORE IS FULL OF TALES OF the newspaperman who could not write his best unless he became so inebriated that he had to be propped up in front of his typewriter, of the surgeon who became brilliant only when in his cups, of the artist who painted or played to perfection only when under the influence of the orator who was most fluent when he had enough under his belt to floor most men.

It is the latter person, mythological or not, who comes to mind in connection with police tests for drunkenness. For it appears that it is still the custom in some places to demand that a suspected alcoholic motorist prove his innocence by his ability to enunciate some tongue twister.

The traditional intelligence that Peter Piper Picked A Peck Of Pickled Peppers has long provided such a test. And it now appears that a driver recently brought before a magistrate in Canterbury made a favorable impression with his faultless rendition of the words "British Constitution."

The accused in this case, however, was not content with such elementary proofs. According to a news item he went on to demonstrate his virtuosity with the statement that, "The Leith Police Dismissed Us."

But there we leave him, as did, indeed, the police of Canterbury. For with this display he put himself beyond the pale of sober articulation. Surely, as with the orator previously mentioned, only a tongue loosened by alcohol could successfully navigate the lisping and hissing required by this test sentence.

In plain words, only a drunk could say it, and we submit it is useless as a test. Let us stick to Peter Piper and leave the Leith Police strictly alone.

LOOSE ENDS

Stroke of Genius

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

AFTER publicly announcing that the Universal No-Party Party (U.N.P.P.) would carry 50 seats in the legislature, Admiral Bingle, the party's founder, was called into private conference this week by Mr. Montague Fwap, Q.C., our prospective attorney-general and minister of politics. Mr. Fwap said frankly that the Admiral had made a serious strategic error. "The fact," Mr. Fwap told Admiral Bingle, "that you claimed 50 seats when there are only 48 in the legislature is of no consequence. The public is weak on mathematics and won't notice the difference. Your mistake was in using a general and exaggerated figure. Now observe how Mr. Bennett, of the Social Credit party, handled a similar situation. He didn't claim all the seats in the legislature. He claimed exactly 37. Not 36, not 35, but 37. That was a stroke of genius. Mr. Bennett is a politician after my own heart."

"HE KNOWS," said Mr. Fwap, "the mystique of figures. Now 37 is a figure bound to stick in the public mind. If Mr. Bennett had said merely that his party would have a majority no one would have paid any attention. But when he uses the specific figure of 37 the public will conclude that he has calculated the mathematics of the election cold-bloodedly, admitted that he cannot win every seat and thus is being perfectly honest. When a man says he will get exactly 37 seats obviously he must know what he is talking about. Mr. Bennett is a genius and a man to watch. Unfortunately he probably won't be in the next legislature. It is a sad loss to our politics."

MR. ANSCOMB also had committed a stroke of genius, said Mr. Fwap, in announcing to the electors of Oak Bay that he was deeply embarrassed in choosing his future cabinet. "Observe," said Mr. Fwap, while Admiral Bingle listened with a glazed look of interest which a stranger might have interpreted as unconsciousness, "observe how Mr. Anscomb has created two distinct impressions, killed two birds with one stone, killed them quite dead, indeed. On the one hand, he contrives to persuade the voters that he will easily carry the legislature. On the other, he keeps all his candidates in suspense."

"Each of his candidates assumes that he will be in the cabinet and therefore works his head off for the party. Mr. Anscomb is too wise to indicate his choices. He leaves every Conservative with a burning hope in his heart. Every candidate, says Mr. Anscomb, is cabinet material. All of them may hope. All will work with redoubled energy."

IT WAS therefore agreed that Admiral Bingle would take the first public opportunity to announce (a) that he would carry exactly 47 seats in the legislature, refusing to exaggerate his claims and (b) that he was appalled, that he lay awake every night trying to calculate how he could place all of his 47 followers in the nine or 10 cabinet portfolios to which all were entitled.

It was also arranged that Admiral Bingle would quietly and mysteriously indicate to each of the party's candidates throughout the province that he very probably would become a cabinet minister. It might be difficult for the public, said Mr. Fwap, to imagine that some of our candidates could possibly be appointed to the executive council, but none of them would have any doubts. Each and every one, Mr. Fwap said, would examine his own qualifications impartially and conclude in simple honesty that he was fitted by nature and experience for the highest office.

EVEN Mrs. Beverley Broadpelt would certainly decide on mature reflection that she was perfectly equipped to administer the government's social services because she had spent her entire life in the higher reaches of society. Let her think so, said Mr. Fwap. It will keep her working. And let the Admiral intimate to her discreetly, not exactly in words, but with a gesture, with a wise and judicious look, perhaps, with a roguish wink, that she could hope for preferment if she were elected. That problem, of course, would not arise, said Mr. Fwap, since Mrs. Broadpelt fortunately would not be elected. The election campaign thus would be only a brief interruption in her social career.

AGAIN, Mr. Gideon Peevil of Saanich undoubtedly expected to be minister of agriculture and he should be allowed to think so. Mr. Peevil, said Mr. Fwap, believed he was well qualified technically for the agricultural department because his father was a successful farmer in Essex and had once owned the champion Holstein of that famous county. In fact, Mr. Fwap was inclined to think by our candidate's look and intelligence, that the champion Holstein had been a blood relation of Mr. Peevil. In any case, though Mr. Peevil had never, to public knowledge, been nearer to the earth than the Oak Bay golf links, he must be built up as a scientific agriculturist and it was for Admiral Bingle to refer to him on the platform as a man of unquestioned technical skill who would ornament any cabinet.

WHEREVER Admiral Bingle went, Mr. Fwap warned, he must refer to the local candidate as cabinet material. No one would know what that meant and no harm would be done. There was in our party, Mr. Fwap claimed, without exaggeration, enough cabinet material for all purposes, about enough, he thought, to build a good-sized coffin. And, quoting the Duke of Wellington at Waterloo, Mr. Fwap said our candidates might not terrify the other parties but they certainly terrified him.

Admiral Bingle thereupon set out for Esquimalt to state on the platform that while our candidate there, Mr. Gulliver S. Snurk, might seem to his neighbors to be a fairly successful undertaker, he was, in fact, a potential minister of finance, because out of his long experience he could undertake anything.

The Pied Piper Is Still Trying

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

THIS was to have been a column about something altogether different but last night we had our semi-annual chimney fire. In the headquarters of the local volunteer fire department the calendar for December and June is marked with a notation: "Watch Sturdy," so I suppose they have us pretty well taped, and from the first of June the fire-fighting equipment is taken out, and tested and whenever I go into the village the garageman, who drives the fire-engine, nods and says: "Be seeing you!"

I don't know why it should happen like that, but it does. However, I must admit to one advantage of having a fire in the country. You either lose your house and everything in it, or you lose nothing.

It is different in the city. You report a fire in your front living room and the fire department comes in the back way, breaking down doors and walls from the kitchen onwards. By the time they have smashed their way to the living room the fire has probably gone out on its own accord, and you are left with a wrecked house and a $25 fine for not having your chimney cleaned.

(I don't know about your fire department, but in the ones I remember Back East there was always a little red truck marked "Salvage," and if ever a thing was misnamed it was this one. Somehow the "Salvage" truck always got to the fire ahead of the other apparatus, and it was loaded with grim-faced men carrying the biggest dam axes you ever saw. When the truck arrived at the scene of the fire these men would leap down and attack the building with their axes, smashing everything in sight.

(Now and again they would batter down the wrong building, but that didn't seem to matter, so long as they could later appear carrying a chair or a kitchen sink or a protesting female. That was where the "salvage" part came in, I suppose.)

Things are much different in the country. Col. S. Skeffington-Smuts (Ret.) had got socks wet digging for clams, and Anastasia, his wife, decided to make a fire and dry them.

From the shed, where my family and I are living (on account of all the guests in the house) my wife first spotted the flames. They were shooting sky-high out of the chimney, erupting sparks all over the property like a giant Chinese fire-cracker. Smoke rolled in great black billows from the roof.

"Well, of course, I immediately ran indoors and found the Colonel and Anastasia and Hamish and Little Augie staring at the roaring fireplace. I had heard somewhere that salt was good for a chimney fire, so I rushed into the kitchen to look in the cupboard. It was then that the telephone rang.

"Good-evening," said the voice of the local operator. "Are you on fire?"

"Oh, no," I said. "It's just the house."

"Would you like me to call the fire department?"

"I'd appreciate it very much."

"Very good. By the way, sir, would you mind stopping in at the telephone office tomorrow morning?"

"Should I?"

"Yes, sir. You're a little overdue on your account again, sir." She sounded as though she were addressing a naughty boy. "You wouldn't like us to disconnect your telephone, would you, sir?"

"Why not?"

"I'll call the fire department," she said.

When I got back into the living room the fire was out and Hamish was on his back, staring up the chimney.

"Clean as a whistle," he said, getting to his feet and looking at me. "That'll save you the chimney sweep's fee."

"Is that so?" said the Colonel, and beamed at me. "Well, my boy, considering that my wife and I were responsible for cleaning out your chimney and thereby saving you money, don't you think a small donation—say, 50 cents—"

"No!" I shouted at him.

At that moment the fire department arrived. So did most of the village. I thought I detected disappointment in the eyes of some of the younger citizens when they saw no sign of flames, but I couldn't be certain.

The Chief came in and inspected the fireplace. He picked up a charred bit of paper and said: "Paper's the worst thing for starting a chimney fire."

It was then that I saw the writing on the bit he held in his hand and I grabbed it. I could just make out the words, "Under Our Roof."

It was today's column.

And now I can't remember what the column was about.

Hospital Insurance

Mr. Anscomb states the present hospital insurance has failed because it depends on a type of compulsion "which won't work in an Anglo-Saxon society."

Sir, our privilege to vote at an election depends on the compulsion to register within so many days of an election. Further, if we do not exercise our privilege to vote at an election an elector is automatically removed from the list.

Regarding hospital insurance there are three interests to be considered:

1. The hospital interests.
2. The insured (the public).
3. The insurer.

Inheritance

Toronto Globe and Mail

We may well encourage and reward those immigrants who bring to us their inheritance of work. But that should be our inheritance as well; more so than any other nation in the free world. Was it taken from us? Or did we ourselves throw it away? We may be sure, in any event, that unless we recover it, our children must. It will be to restore the firm foundations of faith and toil on which this nation was built.

As Our Readers See It

FRIENDSHIP

We have greatly enjoyed reading your paper during our all too brief stay in Victoria.

Your editorials have been extremely interesting and thought provoking regarding our current international relationships.

We have taken the privilege of sending excerpts from your editorials about the paper pulp and the currency courtesy situation to a columnist of the Portland Oregonian, e.g., "B Mike," with the fervent hope that this gesture might further facilitate more friendly relations between our two countries.

It is our desire, as American citizens, to strengthen the bonds of communal friendship so that we may each know collectively and individually the realization of the democratic principles for which we both stand.

DR. AND MRS. C. B. MENDEL, McMinnville, Oregon, U.S.A.

CONTRIBUTOR

Several days ago the Fund Raising Committee for Tofino Hospital received from Victoria in the mail a letter containing a twenty-dollar bill from someone who signed himself "Tenth."

We wish to express our sincere thanks to this thoughtful and kind-hearted friend. With the tremendous job ahead of raising enough money for an adequate hospital for an area so large and far-flung, such acts as this give us new heart to keep going.

A former resident of Tofino has made a gift to us of a beautiful new site, and the local men are clearing and preparing it for the hospital we are planning to build; so every dollar we receive puts us that much nearer our goal.

We hope that "Tenth" may some day visit Tofino to see our hospital and know that just such acts as his have made our hopes a reality.

(Mrs.) ELIDA WALLACE, Secretary, Fund Committee, Tofino, B.C.

WATERSHED

In the watershed controversy there should be only one point to consider—quantity and quality of water. If this be impaired, then logs and dollars should have no consideration. If the removal of the forest interferes with the quantity and quality of water—there should be no logging.

There are some who would leave that to the experts. Let us examine the experts' ideas of good water. In his letter, Mr. Davis made the statement that, should the supply of water from the creeks be cut off, there would be enough water from rain and snow. This rain water would fall, mostly, in November and December, to be held in a catch basin all summer, to become warm and fetid, to make a happy breeding place for all sorts of flies and water insects and to greatly increase the growth of algae and vegetable matter on the bottom of the lake.

Does Mr. Davis contend that this rain water is as good as the clear, cold filtered water coming in from the forest all summer long? Even the man in the street knows better.

Hygienic conditions will be imposed. Just another herring, not a red one but a rotten one—absolutely impossible. Imagine logging crews going into the watershed, every year for 15 years. Phew!

Better the trees should rot than have the watershed so polluted.

It is hard to believe that so many men on a water board can be so lacking in horse-sense. They were afraid to refer the whole matter to the people.

One question—Mr. Editor—I would like to ask. If the water board can sell some of the assets without referring to the people, can they sell all the assets without such reference? Or is this a 64-dollar question?

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"I'M GETTING worried," said the Elevator Man, "about people worrying. It used to be that a fellow who worried got a couple of furrows on his brow and that's about all. But you don't get worried today like you used to get before the war. They just don't put the material in them. And so you find worrying causes a lot more trouble than it used to. One New York doctor announces that you can go blind through worry. Says it's a cause of glaucoma, which produces blindness. And now a Tobin dentist in Montreal tells us that worry is affecting people's teeth. He says if you get sleepless and run down from worry, your teeth will decay. And of course for a long time people have been saying that worry will gray your hair or make it fall out. And beauticians caution women not to worry or they'll spoil their faces. And the first thing the doctor tells you when you go to him with a broken leg, a pumping heart or a pain in your stomach is, 'Don't worry.' So I guess worry is public enemy No. 1 these days. It's pretty worrisome. Going up!"

"One school of thought," said the Elevator Man, "seems to hold that the best way to keep worry out of your mind is not to let anything in your mind at all. And so we have radio comics, musical western movies, canasta and other pastimes to ensure that the mind remains vacant. Trouble is, it's not a very good cure. It just seems to change the kind of things you worry about. And when you start worrying about radio comics, musical western movies, canasta and such pastimes—brother, you've really got something to worry about. Not only that, but your friends will all worry about YOU. Going down!"

"A man with a worry," said the Elevator Man, "is like a dog with a flea. He doesn't accomplish much but he sure keeps busy. One of the main causes, of course, is finance. A lot of us are in the spot of the fellow who asked his boss for a raise and added, 'I should mention that three other companies are after me.' 'Indeed,' says the boss. 'Yes, sir,' says the fellow. 'The gas company, the furniture company and the company we bought the car from.'"

First of Strawberries From Saanich in Stores

First Saanich-grown strawberries are on sale in Victoria stores today.

Twenty-four boxes were received Monday by the Pioneer Fruit & Vegetable Co. Ltd., wholesalers, from the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association. They are selling at 50 cents a box.

The strawberries will drop in price as the season advances.

J. J. Young, manager of the association, said by the end of the week strawberries will be arriving on the market in much larger quantities. Picking began today on southern slopes, he said.

Meanwhile, the federal-provincial farm labor service office in Victoria is seeking berry pickers.

Picking rates for all areas will be as follows:

Strawberries, 60 cents a crate; jam berries, 40 cents a pound; loganberries, 50 cents a crate; logan jam berries 3 cents a pound.

Pickers registered total about 80. About 300 will be required at the season's peak.

MOVE TO REVAMP COMBINES LAWS

Cartel Legislation to Streamline Present Measures Occupy Commons, Also Immigration

OTTAWA, June 3 (CP)—Justice Minister Garson Monday introduced in the Commons legislation to streamline Canada's combines laws, the government's weapon against manufacturers binding to set prices.

It was a busy day for the justice minister.

Introduction of the revamped combines bill came a short time after he tabled a 700-page report from the present combines commissioner, T. D. MacDonald, naming 19 rubber companies and the rubber association of Canada as being engaged in an alleged price-fixing combine in the $250,000,000 rubber industry.

Mr. Garson now is conferring with law officers concerning prosecution against the rubber companies. They include all major rubber manufacturers in Canada, located in Ontario and Quebec. Some are controlled by United States and United Kingdom capital.

The 300,000-word report resulted from a 4½-year investigation. In it Mr. MacDonald reported that combines existed among manufacturers of mechanical rubber goods such as tires and tubes, conveyor belts, fire hose and even heels and rubber soles for shoes. He said the companies had agreements to fix prices and reduce competition contrary to Canada's combines law.

Reports of seven other combines investigations in undisclosed industries are pending. It is likely that these will be produced this summer before the present combines commission is revamped to provide a new three-man agency to adjudicate Mr. MacDonald's investigations.

Besides combines the Commons got its teeth into some of the government's immigration policies Monday. Immigration Minister Harris, presenting a consolidation of the Immigration Act, was asked many questions.

In replying he made these points:

1. Canada probably will admit 100,000 to 150,000 immigrants from all countries this year, compared with a near-record 194,000 last year.

2. Immigration from Britain is "in no way restricted" and will be away ahead of last year's figure of 32,000. More ships were coming from Britain than at any time since the end of the war.

3. Assistance to the whole secondary industries from Britain, including workers and equipment, would be an expensive proposition but not an impossibility. They should fit into the Canadian economy and there would remain the problem of freeing the British assets of such industries.

Rodney Adamson (P.C., York West) brought up the question of deportation of immigrants who develop a communicable disease after reaching Canada. He did not think that fair if they had been given a clean bill of health on entry.

Mr. Harris said such deportation was mandatory under the present act. But that was one of the things which could be discussed when the new legislation went to a committee for further study. If the committee felt there might be a relaxation in that respect, he would consider it.

E. D. Fulton (P.C., Kamloops) said steps should be taken to prevent a recurrence of a recent case in which 75 immigrants entered Canada illegally as a result of "rackets" operated by persons overseas and in Canada, including some immigration officers.

ALTERNATIVE VOTING

AND HOW TO MARK YOUR BALLOT IN THIS PROVINCIAL ELECTION

HERE'S WHY THE NEW SYSTEM IS BEING USED

The Voting system has been changed to enable every voter to cast his ballot for more than one candidate in order of his preference.

When you vote under the Alternative Vote system YOU GET MORE THAN ONE CHOICE. This will prevent any candidate being elected on a minority vote as has happened in the past. The candidate so elected in each riding will have received an absolute majority over all other candidates combined.

HERE'S HOW YOU VOTE WITH ALTERNATIVE VOTING

The Alternative Vote is as simple as the voting system used before only, instead of marking an X against your one choice only, you can mark 1-2-3-4 with your first choice as number one, your second choice as number two and so forth in order of your preference.

CUT OUT THIS MESSAGE FOR REFERENCE AND DISCUSSION.

Bill's Best Not Quite Good Enough Here

United's stellar goalie, Bill McAllister, looked like a jumbo-size crimson rabbit Monday night as he just about wore himself out stopping the blazing drives rammed at him by the magnificent Tottenham Hotspur Football Club. Tottenham put seven goals past McAllister, but his great performance in stopping murderous shots from the O.C. forwards brought a great ovation from the crowd of 5,300. Here McAllister (left) and fullback Bill Hope both dive in vain trying to stop the visitors' third goal, scored by Ed Bailey.

'Spurs Everything 'Twas Said of Them

Pickburn 'Spurs' Choice

Centre-half John Pickburn was rated the outstanding player on the Vancouver Island All-Star football team by members of Tottenham Hotspur.

An informal poll taken at a gathering of both teams and Dominion and provincial soccer officials following Monday's game disclosed this fact.

Though manager Arthur Rowe of the visitors declined to list any particular noteworthy performance, the players questions agreed that Pickburn was a standout in their eyes.

HONORABLE MENTION

Others who gained honorable mention in Tottenham's 7-0 victory were goalie Bill McAllister, inside right Stan Bob and centre forward Wally Milligan.

"Milligan appeared as if he knew what to do with the ball," one Hotspur said, "but he didn't get it very often, did he?"

The defensive play of the All-Stars was praised, majority of the Spurs maintaining their task was much more difficult here than at Vancouver, Saturday.

BUGBEAR

Positional play, the age-old bugbear, was listed by all those who approached as the most serious fault with Canadian football.

Pat Mulcahy, Vancouver Island soccer commissioner presented Tottenham director, Dewhurst Hornby of the Tottenham team with a replica of an Indian whaling boat on behalf of the local association.

HONOR RETURNED

W. J. "Bill" Heryet returned the honor by presenting Charlie Lewis of the Victoria and District Football Association with a gavel, "the better to keep order with," he said. Tour medals were also exchanged.

The Spurs left on the midnight boat for Vancouver where they conclude their British Columbia tour Wednesday night in the second match against the Mainland All-Stars.

Lattice-Work Passing Marks Decisive Victory

Tottenham 7; Vancouver Island 0

By BILL WALKER

Idle talk has no place in the vocabulary of a manager of a visiting English League football team.

This fact was proven conclusively Monday night as Tottenham Hotspur whipped Vancouver Island All-Stars, 7-0, in a setting that was truly

It was only Sunday that Rowe stated publicly that the present Tottenham team was the best in the history of this famous club—a history that goes back to 1870—but it was Monday night that 5,300 Victorians watched those words gain added significance as the match progressed.

A chain is no stronger than its weakest link and Tottenham didn't have one in their lattice-work pattern display against the Island squad.

Always on the attack and using the old sports proverb that a good offense is the best defense, the Spurs, as expected, completely dominated the proceedings.

But for United's leech-like defensive tactics, noticeably the backs and the superb goalkeeping of burly Bill McAllister, the score could easily have been more decisive.

Playing a short-passing game in which the ball seldom left the ground, the Hotspurs diamond-shaped or intermingling series of triangular attacking units swept down the field in wave after wave.

When a Pass Is No Longer a Pass

Or as Rowe further explained following the match:

"There is a point in football when a pass no longer becomes a pass, but is just a kick. Anybody can kick the ball. It is impossible to be accurate beyond 20 yards with any degree of consistency. Only on rare occasions is such length desired and then only when the man is open, providing for the greater margin of error."

It was just a question of time as to when they would solve the packed All-Star defense, a defense, that though beaten, never faltered in the face of the continuous onslaught.

International left inside Eddie Bailey, who only last week played for England at Zurich, Switzerland, was the leading goalgetter with four, two in each half.

Les Medley, International outside right, Sonny Walters, whom he replaced in the second half, and left winger Chris Adams netted singletons.

The story of the opening 14 minutes was built around McAllister who in turn saved from Sid McClellan and right half Bill Nicholson.

Walters opened the scoring with a long, low shot to the left-hand corner of the net on which McAllister appeared to be dummied out of the play by Adams who was stationed near the goal. The ball caught the net just inside the post.

McAllister Had His Moments

"McAllister from Dennis Uphill, McAllister from Nicholson, McAllister from Walters," read the notations taken through the next 23 minutes but the briefs don't tell the story of Joe Robbins, Bill Hope and John Pickburn.

This trio was a defensive bulwark, while the forwards were isolated and, of necessity starved, Tottenham controlling the ball in amazing fashion—Loneliest man on the field was centre forward Wally Milligan who managed but one good shot on goal.

Baily hit a terrific shot under the cross bar on which McAllister had no earthly chance for Tottenham's second goal at 37 minutes. His sizzler into the corner five minutes later left McAllister sprawled on the turf.

The All-Stars showed to the best advantage as an attacking unit, though the respite was brief, early in the second half but it wasn't long before the 'Spurs were again like bees around the honey pot that was McAllister's domain.

The All-Star netminder saved from McClellan. Uphill headed one off the post and Hope cleared a loose ball off the line in a quick succession of events preceding Adams' goal at 20 minutes.

Taking a cross from Medley on right wing, Adams headed the ball into the net, picking the corner as neatly as a seamstress threading a needle.

Tottenham—Masters of Footwork

Barely two minutes later Baily hit a terrific shot between McAllister and Joe Robbins, who was playing second goalkeeper and had saved a certain goal from Uphill on the preceding play.

At 29 minutes Medley left footed a rising shot into the far corner after taking a cross-field pass from international left back Charlie Walters. Baily got his fourth goal three minutes from time.

The Island squad's best opportunity came when Cedric Robb fired into Ted Ditchburn's hands shortly following Tottenham's first goal.

Robb was replaced in the second half by Nanaimo's Paddy Brown who, teaming with Stan Bob, showed some fine touches.

John McIntyre of Civil Service took over at left outside from Harry Carruthers of Canadian Legion in the second half.

Tottenham made two substitutions and three changes.

Withers moved to fullback at the intermission while Ted Gibbins who had started at that post replaced Harry Clarke at centre half. Medley and Walters divided right-wing chores.

And yet, after the brilliant display, manager Rowe stated:

"We didn't play as well here as we did in Vancouver. But there's a reason I think. Your lads tackled much keener than the Vancouver side which attempted to play us at our own game."

And so, Fulham, 1-0 losers last year, was avenged and, Ziegfeld, with all his follies, never had a finer set of troopers than Tottenham. They never missed a step.

MAGLIE IN FIRST LOSS

Allie Moves Yankees Up

Apparently there is one way to overcome the jinx of pitching a no-hitter—just pitch two of them.

That is the formula Allie Reynolds used last year and it has proven most successful.

Unlike such hurlers as Rex Barney, Don Black, Bill McCahan, Ed Head, Dick Fowler, Ewell Blackwell and Cliff Chambers who either suffered an injury, developed a lame arm or otherwise were struck by tough luck after pitching a no-hit game during the last six years, Reynolds has been more effective than ever following his two masterpieces of 1951.

The New York Yankee right-hander turned in his best performance of the season Monday, blanking Cleveland Indians 2-0. The victory moved the world champions into the first division.

LOW EARNED-RUN MARK

Allie, a part creek Indian himself, struck out eight, Redskins as he surrendered only four hits for his ninth straight complete game. The 33-year-old right-hander notched his fifth victory in a row and his sixth against three losses as he reduced his earned-run percentage to a spectacular 1.35.

The defeat dropped the Indians out of the league lead as Boston Red Sox whipped Chicago White Sox 6-2 to take over first place by four percentage points.

MAGLIE BEATEN

Another great righthander, Sal Maglie of the New York Giants, suffered his first defeat of the season as St. Louis Cardinals nipped the National League titleholders 5-4 to snap Maglie's nine-game winning streak.

The defeat left the Giants one game behind the pace-setting

Haas Blisters Par To Lead Qualifiers

Playing in the star-studded section at St. Louis, Haas fired sizzling rounds of 69-64—133 and led the nation by three shots as 119 players at 26 centres won the right to tee off in the Open field at Dallas.

THE TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR FOOTBALL CLUB could show the Harlem Globetrotters something about passing and Monday night their ball control made for a busy evening for the Vancouver Island All-Star defense. Here Bill Mc-Allister goes high in the air to snatch away a loose ball with dangerous Ed Bailey (13), who scored four Tottenham goals, waiting for a possible shot. Victoria players are John Pickburn (5) and Ed Young (4).

Reynolds, Maglie Long Way From Major League Earned-Run Records

NEW YORK, June 3 (AP)—Allie Reynolds, whose clutch hurling is keeping New York Yankees within striking distance of their fourth straight American League pennant, is the leading earned-run pitcher in the major leagues.

Averages released today by the Associated Press disclosed that Reynolds has allowed only 12 earned runs in 80 innings for a 1.35 average.

In the National League, Sal

Maglie of the New York Giants is still the most effective moundsman, although Monday St. Louis handed him his first defeat of the season. Maglie, a nine-game winner, has surrendered 14 earned runs in 86 innings for a 1.47 mark.

Both Reynolds and Maglie, who faced each other in the fourth game of the 1951 World Series, will have to come up with many more low-run games to approach the existing earned-run records. The National League mark, set by Freddie Schupp, also of the Giants, is 0.90, while Hub Leonard's 1.01 with Boston never had been equalled in the American League.

Cleveland's Mike Garcia, the American League's earned-run leader during the early weeks of the season, now ranks behind Reynolds with 1.48.

Giving Maglie a battle for National League honors is ex-sergeant Curt Simmons of the Philadelphia Phillies. The tall lefthander, who returned as a member of Eddie Sawyer's hurling corps on April 29, has allowed only eight earned runs in 46 innings for a 1.57 average.

Ez, Joe Weigh Same For Heavy Title Bout

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., June 3 (AP)—Heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott and his challenger, Ezzard Charles, underwent physical examinations Monday and to the surprise of all—each weighed 196½ pounds.

This is exceptionally heavy for Ezzard. He never weighed more than 186 for a title fight before and had expected to weigh 191 for the Thursday night 15-rounder in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium. Walcott had announced he'd enter the ring at 194.

Dr. W. G. B. Terry of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission reported both fighters in excellent condition. Charles was examined at his nearby Pleasantville camp while Walcott took his physical here. The commission ruled that Charles will have to trim his

Only Those in 'Made Jobs' To Go Conservative Candidate Pledges

B.C. Hospital Insurance Service employees have been told they will lose their jobs if they vote Progressive-Conservative, Mrs. Margaret Harvey, Conservative candidate for Victoria, charged at a meeting Monday night in Burnside School.

"Those people need not fear if we are elected," she said, "but the sisters and the cousins in made jobs will have to get out."

She had faith in the Conservative plan for non-compulsory hospital insurance, she said. "It will work here, just as it has been working in the United States," she said.

Of the Social Credit party she said that "no organization will spend $100,000 to this province without expecting to run the show."

A. deB. McPhillips took the present Liberal government to task for its handling of the milk situation here.

"On February 1 the Milk Board passed an order permitting cash and carry milk at 3 cents less per quart," he said. The cabinet did nothing until April, then allowed a 1-cent reduction in Vancouver, but nothing here.

$17,000—PETTY CASH

He condemned the federal government for spending $46,000,000 in 1951 on traveling expenses, and another $17,000,000 for petty cash—"that's a lot of petty cash"—and Agriculture Minister James Gardiner for sending cattle back to the ranges to maintain prices.

"This government has reduced us to horsemeat, margarine and skim milk," he charged.

As a Victoria member he promised to take action on the city's highway entrances, a new court house, provincial grants to municipalities in lieu of taxes and a new Point Ellice bridge.

Development of British Columbia to enhance the general welfare of the province is in line with plans for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, according to candidate Walter Miles.

"The Peace River country has coal, oil and wheat in abundance," he said. "We want to see the rail"

Upper Island Job Chances Are Excellent

COURTENAY, June 3.—Job opportunities in the Courtenay-Campbell River area are good, according to the National Employment Service office.

Since the beginning of the year placements have averaged 200 a month.

A tightening was noticed in the construction trades in the latter part of May, however, and logging operators have reduced their crews because of unsettled conditions arising from wage negotiations.

A moderate demand for carpenters and painters continues, but rising coal production has cancelled all current requirements for miners.

Registration of students in local schools for summer work has been completed.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

And then there was the slightly over-celebrated groom who saw Niagara Falls for the first time.

"Tell 'em to shlop shteeleing Johnny Ray's act," he demanded.

Of course it was just a coincidence. But Ss. Pacific Reliance was at Ogden Point Monday night, and Ss. Orient City was at Cowichan Bay. And Cap' Reaveley of Reliance is a Manchester man, and Cap' Jones of Orient City is as Welsh as his name.

So they weren't even mildly surprised when they turned up as seat-mates at the Tottenham Hotspurs game. Enjoyed it, too, and now both are willing to sail for home—and more of the same—any minute now.

Don't know if the nose-and-throat men around town are busy today after the football game last night, but it is a fact that Italian doctors treated 3,250 cases of sore throat after an England-Italy test recently.

All those fantastic stories you hear about summer bachelors are not necessarily so. At least, I have one piece of evidence to prove that not all of them leave the dishes in the sink and wait for Mama to come home.

One bachelor I know, name of Ian Hardisty, is not so conscientious that he not only did the dishes after a birthday party he had for himself, he finished the job with a bath in the sink.

As the adjoining photograph proves.

Of course, it was Ian's first birthday, and no doubt he will grow up to be as careless as other summer bachelors.

A hearty welcome back to work for Cec Ridout, the King Bros. manager.

Cec, having counted too many birthdays, decided he would like to be young again.

So he followed the example of his children and came down with the mumps.

If hard-pressed, he will admit he enjoyed the rest—and the special service an enthusiastic invalid gets from his wife.

Another King Bros. man has been on the sick list. The morning after he had witnessed the Winnipeg Ballet, Ken Briggs reported to the Doc with a bad eye.

The Doc allowed that maybe the ballerinas had knocked his eye out, but further examination showed that he had picked up a small splinter of steel somewhere.

Touching tableau on Government Street outside the R.C.A.F. recruiting office.

In the window was a smart display, showing a charming W.D. chirping happily "I'm smart—I joined the R.C.A.F."

Staring pensively at the window was a somewhat harassed looking lady, clutching a large armload of parcels.

She was heard to murmur: "I married an R.C.A.F.—so what does that make me?"

Death of a 45-year-old woman found on the beach at the foot of Lotus Street Sunday was due to drowning, Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said today following an inquiry.

The woman's body was discovered lying close to the waters of the Gorge.

Mrs. R. Logan was elected president of the Performing and Caged Animals Protection League at a recent Vancouver meeting.

Mrs. F. F. Barnett was named first vice-president; Mrs. N. Hopper second vice-president; and Mrs. H. M. Kelly, Mrs. W. C. Barry, Mrs. O. E. Lorimer and Miss M. Bachus, executive committee members.

Manager Dave Turner of the Vancouver Island All-Stars football team who was called away from Monday night's match with Tottenham Hotspurs because of an injury to his son, Bobby, today reported the boy resting comfortably.

"He fell, hitting his head on a rock," Dave said, "and a slight concussion resulted."

"Now he's mad because he missed the match."

Turner, unavailable for comment following the game, praised the All-Stars for their fine showing.

"We planned a defensive game and I'm certain we made Tottenham play its finest soccer," he said.

Two new cub packs have been organized in Victoria—one for handicapped youngsters who cannot enjoy all the pleasures of normal children and the other for youngsters of Chinese heritage who attend the Chinese school on Fisgard Street.

Those in charge of the cub training program for the area say the two newest packs show promise of becoming the best in the city for members of both groups are showing tremendous enthusiasm for the training.

Miss Edna Reid is in charge of the handicapped group, which Saturday visited Mount Douglas Park, while Miss Winnie Burnett is supervising activities of the Chinese group.

Woods Strike Feared

Conciliator Sits To Find Formula

A government conciliator opened hearings today in Vancouver to settle a threatened strike of 30,000 woodworkers on the British Columbia coast.

The International Woodworkers of America (I.W.O.A.) laid down a "no contract-no work" policy shortly after Arthur J. Cowan, a Vancouver lawyer, took over conciliation proceedings.

The union set midnight, June 14, as the strike deadline, charging that the operators had been prolonging negotiations through "an intensive propaganda program."

The union wants a 35-cent hourly wage boost, along with an employer paid health and welfare plan, statutory holidays, union shop, travel time for loggers and other "non-cost" concessions.

Lawrence Vandale, financial secretary of Local 1357, New Westminster, appeared for the union and lawyer C. George Robson was on hand to speak for Forest Industrial Relations, representing the operators.

Jack McKenzie, president of the Victoria local which represents 1,500 loggers and millworkers, said strike committees are being formed anticipating an unfavorable board report.

MORE CLUCKS, FEWER BUCKS

Rookie hens are beginning to give serious competition to their older sisters in the chicken house.

The resultant increased output of eggs was felt today as the pullet product dropped six cents a dozen on the local market.

Accompanying the high production of the young hens is a decrease in sales. So dealers have revised their price table.

Rev. W. R. Ashford Accepts Call to Calgary Church

Rev. W. R. Ashford has tendered his resignation as minister of Centennial United Church, 649 Gorge Road, in order to accept a call to Crescent Heights United Church at Calgary.

Mr. Ashford has served the Victoria church for the past seven years. He came to this city after serving as an air force chaplain during the war.

Announcement of his resignation was made Sunday to his congregation. He will leave the church at the end of the month; spend one month at his summer cottage on Salt Spring Island, and take up his Calgary appointment Aug. 1.

Membership at Centennial Church has trebled during Mr. Ashford's ministry.

The Crescent Heights' Church to which he will go is larger than the church here and has a Sunday school registration of 750 children.

CUTWORMS PLAGUE B.C.

Island Growers Suffering Loss

Farmers throughout British Columbia are battling one of the worst plagues of cutworms ever seen in British Columbia, it was announced today by the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

The cutworms have taken a heavy toll of crops and plants on Vancouver Island and in farming areas on the mainland, horticulturists reported.

Damage is expected to amount to thousands of dollars unless the plague is brought under control immediately, they said.

A. T. Wilkinson, entomologist, Canada department of agriculture, confirmed that the cutworms were "definitely a menace."

As high as 22 bugs have been found on one plant, he said. Normally not more than two cutworms are found around a single plant.

Ben Hoy, provincial horticulturist, reported that in farming areas at Lillooet and Chase cutworm damage to tomato fields have been particularly heavy.

In the Okanagan Valley the cutworms have "mowed down" 90 per cent of some crops. Asparagus fields have suffered heavily from the pests.

Several gardeners have reported the cutworms wiped out all of their tomato and cabbage plants.

Bill Mattick, one of the larger growers in the area, said he has never seen anything like it in his lifetime.

"We discovered last night 50 cutworms around one hill of beans," he said. "It is not uncommon to find 20 cutworms to a plant."

Entomologists urged growers and gardeners to take immediate action to control the pests if they want to save their crop. Best method of control for small gardens is the application of 5 per cent D.D.T. dust on wet ground preferably.

Victoria's rainfall for 1952 continues to be about 30 per cent below normal, according to Weather Bureau statistics.

Statistics show precipitation for the year to be only 8.23 inches, instead of the normal 11.77 inches usually recorded for this time.

Rainfall for May was only .66 inch, or 31 less than normal. Mean temperature for the month was a near-normal 54 degrees, and total sunshine was 270 hours, just three less than the long-standing average for the month.

Beaufort Tree Farm, covering nearly 25,000 acres of logged land west of the Island Highway between Fanny Bay and Union Bay, was dedicated today by Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan.

The ceremony and visit to the farm were sponsored by MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., owners of the land.

At present 84 per cent of the area is covered by a young forest established since the original logging began in the 1920's, including 1,000,000 trees planted by the company in 1945 and 1946.

This tract, lying on the eastern slope of the Beaufort Range, under careful management will yield a minimum average annual output of 5,800,000 F.B.M. in perpetuity.

Summer Fashion Leaves Little Room to Hide!

By PENNY SAVER

Shoes that are virtually only heel, sole and strap, sheer, sheer nylons, shorts, beachwear and bathing suits for this coming season will all throw the spotlight on your legs and feet.

Fuzzy legs, discolored skin and calloused toes will have little room to hide, according to fashions' forecast for summer, 1952. It's up to you to attain sleek, satin-smooth legs, and toes that aren't afraid to twinkle to an audience.

Prepare now for the carefree "hairfree" look! First get rid of traces of fuzz or hair on your legs... and don't risk razor stubble!

Why borrow brother, did or friend, husband's razor when you've got a feminine prerogative? It's that pleasant-scented, easy-to-use cream depilatory that will do the trick far easier.

Easy to carry with you when you go on your vacation, it comes in a tube, and is simply applied with a wooden spatula. The tube sells for $1.50.

You merely smooth the cream on the area where you wish to remove hair, wait from eight to 15 minutes and then, with warm water and a wash cloth, wipe away the cream and reveal lovely, soft, hair-free legs.

No embarrassing razor cuts or burns! If you have any minor skin abrasions or disturbances, a touch of soothing medicated cream will help clear up the condition in no time. Ideal for heel blisters, too. This sells for $1.50.

Want a boucle sweater? Chances are that you do, seeing as they are one of the most popular dress-up accessories that you can invest in.

A short-sleeved boucle sweater, with a pattern effect on the front from the top of the high round neck to the tight-fitting waistband, is $1.98. A wide variety of colors awaits you.

WHY GROW OLD?

You Can Change Shape Of Legs With Exercise

The contour of the leg is important in the feminine beauty ensemble. When skirts were long it was nice if Grandma could shyly show a beautiful ankle but she could keep a thick one under cover.

Today, with skirts worn at mid-calf and women everywhere joining in sports and outdoor life and comfortable play clothes, we have no skirts to hide under.

Much can be done to improve the shape of a leg. Its contour depends on bone structure, muscles and fatty deposits. The latter two we can control to some extent. If the defect is due to the structure of bones it is difficult to change that except in early life and when improvement is made the process is a long one. Fortunately, most defects in leg contour come from too little exercise or too much fat or over or under developed muscles. If you are overweight naturally you will lose in the legs when you drop underweight a gain will help en the extra pounds. If you are underweight a gain will help en the extra pounds. If you are underweight a gain will help en the extra pounds.

Why yes, Mary. It's easy to tell it isn't powdered skim milk. "I thought all powdered milks were the same."

"Oh, no, Borden's Klim has cream in it. You see, it's pasteurized whole milk in powder form."

"Yes, but is it economical?" "Heavens yes. Why, I pound makes over three quarts of good, rich whole milk, excellent for drinking or cooking."

"The label on the tin says you mix Klim by adding to water and beating."

"Or you can put it in a sealer and shake. And Borden's Klim stays fresh in the tin for weeks after it's opened. Believe me, it's the ideal milk supply!"

Get Borden's Klim at your grocer's in 1, 2 1/2, or 5 lb. tins.

Garden Party and Summer Ball at Government House

There's an air of excitement at Government House these days! Members of the staff are stepping a little lighter, the secretary's office is working a little faster, the gardeners are eyeing their flower borders with a little more concern.

For the period of court mourning is over, and Government House will again be the scene of the many brilliant social affairs, small and large, that has become so much a part of it during the past two years.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Clarence Wallace are noted for their hospitality, and they enjoy entertaining. Already they are making plans for a garden party on July 9 in the attractive grounds, which will be ablaze with summer flowers and for a summer dance in the beautiful crimson and gold ballroom on Aug. 15.

Invitations to the garden party will be sent to many Victoria citizens and to others from out of town.

The August ball, planned for the height of the season when it should be possible to "sit out" in the garden or stroll on the lawns overlooking the sea between dances, will be the first summer dance at Government House in some years. It is of special interest this year as the State Ball, a social event at opening of the Legislature, could not be held because of the death of the late King.

To Attend Vancouver Events

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Clarence Wallace will leave for Vancouver on Wednesday afternoon. While in the mainland city His Honor will present graduation certificates at York House School on Friday afternoon and in the evening with Mrs. Wallace will attend a military ball at Hotel Vancouver where 11 British Columbia debutantes will be presented.

Exchange Teachers' Refresher in Geography, Hiking in Interior

By DAVE STOCK

Although most students are quick to name a favorite subject, most teachers hesitate before committing themselves.

But not Miss Wyn Gillett or her friend, Miss Elizabeth Ferguson.

Exchange teachers from the United Kingdom who have been taking classes in local schools since last September, the two agree geography is more fun than anything. But then their approach to the subject is different from most.

Realizing the hour is rapidly approaching when they must soon return home, the pair decided recently it was high time they learned all they could about British Columbia.

Each gained permission to take a week off from her teaching chores. Together they set out to see all they could.

The big problem was finances. As exchange teachers are paid "from home," the two young women were in no position to undertake any guide-conducted tour.

But with high hearts, great enthusiasm and a willingness to go where friendly motorists would take them, the two set out to hitch-hike.

TOURED PROVINCE

The venture was most successful. They traveled the Hope-Princeton highway, saw the Okanagan Valley, went north to Salmon Arm and returned to the coast by way of the scenic Fraser Canyon route.

And their transportation costs, other than the boat trip between here and the mainland was only 45 cents each. The 45 cents was bus fare between Vancouver and New Westminster at the start of the trip.

"Vancouver was such a busy place we thought we had better get out onto the highway where we would have a better chance of getting a lift," Miss Gillett explained.

"And it worked, too," Miss Ferguson grinned. "We left the bus and had walked just a few yards beyond Pattullo Bridge when the first car stopped and asked us if we would like a lift."

The pair averaged three to four lifts a day on their journey. They were befriended by truck drivers, a commercial traveler, a Chinese truck farmer, a cattle buyer, several motoring vacationists, a country doctor, a retired rancher from Saskatchewan, and finally by a R.C.M.P. highway patrolman.

"We were prepared to walk a lot," they now acknowledge, "but actually we walked only a very short distance."

B.C. motorists, they decided, are "wonderful."

Men, they confided, are more helpful to travelers on the road than women.

One woman driver slowed down as she came abreast of the two companions as they were walking near Kelowna, shouted to them

"get a horse," and then drove off in a cloud of dust. But the two were amused rather than angered by the gesture.

The tour proved everything that the two had hoped. Miss Gillett thought the Okanagan similar in many ways to the lake district at home but acknowledged the Fraser Canyon was like nothing she had seen before.

"It was magnificent!" Miss Ferguson agreed. And what stories they'll have to tell about such fascinating names as Shuswap, Sicamous, Tulameen and Smilkameen when they reach home. With the school term drawing to a close, the two companions will be leaving for Scotland at the month's end.

Before that time Miss Gillett will say goodbye to her grade one pupils at Lampson Street School and return to her job in Kilmarock, while Miss Ferguson will leave her grade three class at Oaklands for her regular school-room in Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Guard Moral Frontiers I.O.D.E. Is Warned

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 3 (CP).—Members of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire were told today that they showed an increasing awareness of the need for knowledge and understanding of current problems during 1951.

Mrs. H. S. Angus, Toronto, said in her report of the National Empire and World Affairs committee, one of a number prepared for delivery to the I.O.D.E.'s 52nd annual meeting, that interest had increased in such general discussion subjects as current events, world affairs and Communism.

ECHOES REPORT

Mrs. Laurence Groat of Toronto, national secretary of the organization's quarterly publication, Echoes, in her report told of the inauguration of provincial stories in the Christmas issue.

The first four were about Eastern chapters, that from Ontario would appear in the spring issue and the Western provinces would be covered in the summer issue.

Reporting for the immigration and Canadianization committee, Daisy Taylor, Ottawa, said that

Exchange Nuptial Vows At Ceremony in Home

Margaret Jean Snow, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Burnett, Douglas Street, and Robert Charles Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, Gosworth Road, stood before a fireplace flanked with standard baskets of stocks, pennies, snapdragons and ferns in the home of the groom's parents, to exchange nuptial vows.

Rev. G. A. Reynolds officiated. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a blue dressmaker suit with matching hat complemented with navy accessories and sapphire and silver necklace and earrings, gift of the groom. Her bridal bouquet was pink roses and stephanotis.

Her only attendant, Miss Sara Fainges Hall, sister of the groom, wore a dove grey suit with navy accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

The groom's brother, Jack Fainges Hall, was best man.

At the reception following the ceremony a three-tier cake centred the Scottish lace-covered bride's table. Sweet peas in silver vases and tall white candles also decorated the table. Rev. Reynolds proposed the toast.

For her honeymoon up-island the bride wore a heather-blue wool suit with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses.

...THE FILTER TIP

protects your throat

WHAT THE FILTER TIP DOES

It stops particles of tobacco getting into the throat.

It is the common-sense method of preventing smoker's throat because it effectively retains irritants.

It guards physical fitness.

It brings out the flavour and makes the smoke delightful, soft and cool.

You can light your first du Maurier confident of better smoking. A du Maurier cigarette is a new experience. Scrupulous care is taken in choosing and blending the tobacco for rich and distinctive flavour. Then the particular filter tip—which selects and withholds whatever might taint or tarnish the natural smoke with any heat or harshness—keeps that flavour always cool and mellow. For these reasons the pleasure you find in your first experience will not be a thing that passes: you will find it renewed in every du Maurier you smoke.

There'll never be a better cigarette

Elizabeth, Philip Replay Ottawa Tunes

LONDON, June 3 (BUP)—Elizabeth enjoyed thoroughly on her visit to Canada soon will be heard in the ornate halls of Buckingham Palace.

Tunes like "Devil's Dream" and "Ragtime Annie" will be in the royal repertoire as a reminder of that night last October in Ottawa when Elizabeth was a princess in a druid's skirt and peasant blouse.

The British Broadcasting Corporation disclosed that three long-playing records had been prepared secretly in co-operation with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to offer Elizabeth and Prince Philip a rustic evening of dancing.

NEVADA PROSPECTOR SAYS HE'S WED EIGHT WOMEN SINCE 1911

SACRAMENTO, Calif., June 3 (AP)—The district attorney's office is investigating the marital status of Hubert Earl Bustain, 65-year-old Nevada prospector, who reported he married eight women since 1911 because "it's my system to help others."

Deputy District Attorney Robert W. Cole said he was particularly interested in Bustain's statement that Bustain assumes—but isn't sure—that each of his successive wives divorced him.

No charges have been filed against Bustain and he is not under arrest.

Bustain confessed he couldn't remember the names of all his wives. He said he married first in 1911, and again in 1923, 1931, 1934, 1944, twice in 1945 and most recently on March 29, 1951, to the former Doris Johnson, in Reno, Nev. She asked the district attorney's office to look into the matter.

"I've always made good money and I like to use it to help people who need it," Bustain said. "With all the women it was a matter of helping them out. I'd help them get started out in life again."

Profits of Musical Festival Went on Bursaries Meet Told

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Public relations, adjudicators and bursaries sparked some lengthy and lively debate during the annual meeting of the Musical Festival Association, held Monday night in the First United Church schoolroom.

Reporting on the financial result of the 1952 festival, William Harrison revealed that while the operation had been profitable, a small deficit of $38 had resulted from the awarding of bursaries totaling $840. President J. F. K. English assured the meeting that the association has a "nest egg" for a rainy day and is therefore, in general, in a healthy condition.

Graham Steed led a discussion on the advisability of returning to the system of British adjudicators or of bringing adjudicators from eastern Canada. Regarding the expense of such a move, it was pointed out that the association could not afford more than the $1,038 expended this year on adjudication fees.

There was a suggestion that the number of bursaries might be reduced, thereby making more funds available for adjudication services.

In his presidential address, Mr. English thanked his executive, the committees and staff for their keen co-operation, and The Victoria Daily Times for its support.

The official accompanists, Miss Dorothy-mae Charles, Miss Ethel James and Malcolm Hamilton, received a special vote of appreciation for their extensive voluntary contribution.

Re-elected by acclamation were Mr. English, president; Denis W. Brown, first vice-president; Mrs. Ellis, second vice-president; W. Harrison, treasurer, and Mrs. Hunter, recording secretary. Miss Jessie Stokes was elected corresponding secretary.

The board of directors will consist of Mrs. Wood, Dr. H. R. Anderson, Miss Una Calvert, W. H. Muncy and Harry Bigsby.

Victoria Teacher Off On Examination Tour

Stanley Shale, A.R.A.M., well-known teacher of piano in Victoria and Vancouver, will leave the city this week to undertake a tour of Alberta as examiner for the Western Board of Music.

Mr. Shale will examine for all grades up to and including candidates for the degrees of Associate of Music and Licentiate of Music. His trip will take him to Lethbridge, Edmonton, Calgary, Lacombe and Innisfail.

The Western Board of Music is university-created and operates in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. It has strong support throughout the three prairie provinces where it has succeeded very well in its aim of building up the general music standard.

Mr. Shale expects to return to Victoria toward the end of June and shortly afterward, will leave by air for England, where he will spend the summer months.

LONDON (CP)—Mr. Justice Wynn-Parry, a judge of the chancery division, testified in a court case and described a scene when a taxi collided with his automobile. The taxi drove on but the judge, on foot, caught up with the car driver, who was fined for careless driving.

With TOMMIE WALTERS
Beginning tonight the "B.B.C. Hour" on Dominion network will be divided into two distinct parts. The first half will be devoted to feature programs dealing with topics varying in context from the Tower of London to spiders and mysteries of the brain. The second portion will take the form of a light music series called "Symphony for Strings."

On tonight's opening program the feature will deal with G.M.T.—Greenwich Mean Time—one of the most familiar combinations of letters in the world of chronology. To produce this feature, B.B.C. commentators visited various departments of the Observatory in its original home at Greenwich and its new palatial quarters at Herstmonceux Castle in Sussex, where some of the departments are now housed. Raymond Baxter, from Greenwich, will introduce the program with a general outline of the work and research carried on in the Observatory, which was founded by Charles II.

Colleagues of Baxter will be called in to amplify the story. Berkeley Smith will describe how stars are mapped and timed as they cross the Greenwich meridian, and Peter West will speak from the National Almanac Office at Herstmonceux. Towards the end of this portion of the program the listener will be taken back to Greenwich, where Henry Riddell will report on the astrographic telescope which is used to photograph the heavens.

Performing in the "Symphony for Strings" are Radio times and programs are furnished by stations and networks and are subject to last minute changes. The Times assumes no responsibility for inaccurate listings.

Douk Youths Want School Opened

Doukhobor children at Hilliers, Vancouver Island, are expected to return to school next term, a provincial education department official said today.

Parents closed the small Doukhobor school recently in what was described as a return to community elders' old beliefs. They were slipping away from the policies of Michael (the Archangel) Veregin, who died several months ago, it was reported.

The education department sent an inspector into the settlement to investigate the school closure, and he has reported a probable reopening next September.

The young people, he reported, are anxious to have the school open again.

The Doukhobors asked stoppage of family allowance payments when they closed the school. Officials, however, had had no notification when to resume payments.

The Doukhobor school is not part of the public school system. It was set up by the Doukhobors and run by a Doukhobor teacher, using most of B.C.'s curriculum.

LONDON (CP).—A woman wrote to the London Daily Mirror saying she wants to emigrate to one of the Commonwealth countries with matrimony in mind.

The newspaper answered that Canada might be a possibility, and said there are 168,000 surplus men there.
